

This course will offer insights into the complex area of mergers and acquisitions of business enterprises (M&A). This comprises an in-depth knowledge of various forms of business transactions, formation and alliances with high relevance for today's business practice.

Building on these basic legal and business aspects of M&A, the students will understand common practice in the management of M&A-projects, especially the function, the content and procedures of legal, financial and tax diligence. This also covers a thorough understanding of the various aspects of transaction documentation and business formation, with a special focus on business risk and profit management. Overall, the students will be enabled to act in professional M&A management and take ownership of relevant business or risk management decisions.
